YACHT MAGEWIND

STEVEN ULRICH & DEBORA RUFFE

Steven Ulrich is a passionate and experienced sailor who has traveled the waters of the Pacific coast line, the beautiful South Pacific Seas, and the clear blue oceans of the Caribbean. As a boy Steven helped his father build a 26' fiberglass sloop in their backyard in Los Angeles, CA in the early part of the 1960's and spent summers off the coast of Southern CA and the Channel Islands. In the fall of 1967 at age ten, they departed California for a five year circumnavigation. He has a computer science degree, sailed most of his and recently purchased Magewind and completed a refit on her.

Chef Debora, always an enthusiast cook, has spent many hours under the watchful eye and guidance of master chef, Theresa Kobler originally of Lazy Creek Vineyards in Northern California. Her love of entertaining and cooking will delight your taste buds and quench the thirst of the saltiest sailor. Debora has a degree in sales and marketing and has spent the last few years sailing the coast of California before she and Steven purchase Magewind.

They have spent three years cruising the Spanish, US and British Virgin Islands and now make their home in the Sausalito California. This is the perfect catamaran for one couple, for a romantic get away, honeymoon, anniversary... you name it! She is also well suited busy professional people for weekend adventure close to home. Or coming in from out of town for meetings, stay on board and have evening in and about the bay.

Magewind is in the idealy setup in the Sausalito downtown, right across from the ferry to San Francisco. A great venue, long weekends for professionals. Or come in from out of town for meetings, stay on board and have evening in and about the bay. This would be in addition to all of the sailing, hiking, dinning, wine tours, around businesses meetings, etc. It could be a night in Sausalito, Tiburon or Angel Island. Places on the water where there are no hotels. One could telecommute on the bay.
